

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

IN presenting to the Public a new edition (being the thirteenth) of a Book, which has attracted a general attention from its utility for more than thirty years; and which has been lately with-held in consequence of a suit at law, it seems necessary to prefix a short History of this Work, and of the late Proceedings, for the information and satisfaction of those, who have hitherto honoured it with their approbation and support.

In the year 1771, Mr. Daniel Paterson, Assistant Quarter-Master General of His Majesty's Forces, brought out the first edition of this Book, which his official occupations had led him to prepare, under the title it now retains of, "A new and accurate Description of the Roads of England and Wales, &c. &c." It had gained so much repute, that several editions of many thousands in number had been sold before the year 1788, when the present Proprietor became possessed of the Copy Right, by the death of a relation, who had originally purchased the Work. Though not concerned in the bookselling business, yet, from extensive connexions in trade all over the kingdom, he thought he might be enabled to improve and to enlarge it; and therefore he determined to continue the publication, through the medium of Messrs. Longman of Paternoster-Row. Many more editions passed off; and the eleventh, (of 10,000 number) which was printed in 1796, was increased, by the communication of friends, to nearly treble its original size.—Soon after this period, Mr. Cary, who had been employed by the Post-Office to make new admeasurements of some of the principal roads, solely with a view to the regulation of the Mail Coaches, exhibited a printed specimen, of an intended book of a similar kind. This naturally came into the hands of the Proprietor of Paterson's, who observing, that, instead of a new scheme, it was a direct adoption of his own plan and design, immediately called on Mr. Cary, and remonstrated against such a publication, as an invasion of his right. His admonitions, however, were treated with indifference, and, in the spring of 1798, this pretended new production was advertised under the following title :

“ Cary's New Itinerary, or an accurate Delineation
 “ of the great Roads, both Direct and Cross, throughout “ England and Wales, with many of the principal Roads
 “ of Scotland : from an actual Admeasurement made by “ Command of His Majesty's Post-Master General, for “ Official Purposes : under the Direction and Inspection
 “ of Thomas Hasker, Esq. Surveyor and Superintendent “ of the Mail Coaches. By John Cary, Surveyor of the “ Roads to the General Post-Office,” &c. and dedicated to the Post-Master General.

The reader would naturally conclude from such a representation, that all the Roads, both Direct and Cross, had been actually measured; but, when he purchased the book, he found that the fact was otherwise, on reading the Preface; and he was there informed, that the survey extended to upwards of nine thousand miles:—another statement that is not a little overcharged, as will be proved in the sequel. The reader is also told, that the rest of the roads, “have been selected with great industry and care from the County Surveys;” but not a word of his obligations to his predecessor Paterson.

From a very cursory examination of the New Itinerary, (as it is called) it was evident, that not only the scheme and design of Paterson’s Book had been seized upon, but that the greatest part of the matter or substance which it contained, where the partial survey of the Post-Office did not extend, had been transplanted with as little scruple into this publication;—and that often in a manner so servile, as not to disguise the plagiarisms by a change of words. It was manifestly a Copy at the beginning, the middle, and the end.—In the Preface, in the Plan of the Routes, and in the Indexes. The Preface, indeed, in some places was borrowed verbatim, literatim, and punctuatim, with the same parentheses, and other passages, as distinguished either by Roman, or by Italic types.* In short, the whole construction was so similar, that persons heedlessly opening Cary’s Itinerary, might suppose it was their old friend Paterson enlarged. The plagiarisms of the roads do not indeed present themselves page after page, nor even in continuity in the same page, because they are transposed in many places, and varied as to the arrangement of the routes; but they may be readily detected, and ascertained from the circumstance of the initials G. P. O. (General Post-Office) having been prefixed by Mr. Cary to his new measured roads,* and omitted where his survey was wanting; and from a negative designation, namely, where Mr. Cary's miles are not divided into a smaller fraction than a quarter; as his real measurements were given to an eighth or further. Mr. Cary also availed himself of the numerous catalogue of Gentlemen's Seats which had been many years in collecting and increasing, and he adopted the same errors with respect to them, which the Editor of Paterson's Roads had committed, and in the same terms.—In fine, there could be no doubt but that Mr. Cary's Editors and the Surveyors who measured his roads, had travelled alike with Paterson's Book in their hands, which formed not only the basis, but even the body of his New Itinerary.

From such unjustifiable and unrestrained conduct on the part of Mr. Cary; and from the imposing display of his title page, the sale of Paterson's Roads was, as might be expected, almost entirely superseded; its Proprietor, however, was not of such a feeble spirit, as to be extinguished without a struggle. The Copy Right of his Book had not yet expired; and therefore the Law would have afforded a remedy for such a wanton aggression; but instead of the slow warfare of legal restraints and prosecutions, the Proprietor determined upon the bolder measure of reprisals: for two reasons,—one, that retaliation was more summary;—and the other, that the Public would probably be gainers by the establishment of a competition.

A new edition of Paterson's Roads (though near 4,000 copies of the former remained unsold) was instantly put to the press, avowedly made up from part of Cary's Itinerary; and in the year following, viz. in August, 1799, this new edition, being the twelfth, was published; and Mr. Cary soon finding the consequence of his disingenuous conduct in the decline of his sales, filed a Bill in Chancery in November in the same year, for an injunction to stop the publication of Paterson's, as a piracy of his book. The Cause came on in due course; but it was dismissed by Lord Loughborough, then Lord Chancellor, with the payment of costs to the Proprietor of Paterson's Work, in words to this effect.

“ That Mr. Cary was not entitled to any damages; for that Paterson's was the original production, and had received improvements and alterations from time to time: that they had evidently borrowed from each other, and that in strict justice perhaps he ought to order each party to expunge what he had taken from the other; but, as they were useful publications, rather than reduce them as it were to skeletons, both Books should be left to take their chance with the Public.”—The Attorney-General observed, “ that by such an operation Mr. Cary's would indeed be a skeleton, but that Mr. Paterson's would at least be as entire and as complete a Book as it was before.”

And after a few remarks from the Counsel on each side, the Lord Chancellor said, “ That Mr. Cary might think himself well off, if Mr. Newbery, the Proprietor of Paterson, did not file a Bill against him.”

However encouraging such a decree towards the institution of a suit against Mr. Cary, the Proprietor of Paterson’s Work being satisfied with the course he had taken, determined to continue it, and to rest his future claims on the superiority of his publication: and indeed he was justified in this resolution, by the very great demand for his Book; of which upwards of 3,700 were sold in less than a year.

After a decision in the Court of Chancery so fatal to Mr. Cary’s pretensions, a pause of nearly a twelvemonth succeeded, when, (namely, in Michaelmas Term 1800) he renewed his cause in the Court of King’s Bench; and after the day for the trial was fixed, he, on the night preceding, withdrew the record.—No impediment whatever had been thrown in the way by the Proprietor of Paterson’s Roads; Why then this delay? Was not this action commenced in opposition to the opinion of Mr. Cary’s Friends, and to the advice even of his Solicitor? And did not his Counsel recommend him to offer terms to the Proprietor of Paterson’s Roads rather than risk the cause? Be that as it may, the fact is, that soon after he applied to two of Mr. Newbery’s friends, through whom he made a proposition to the following effect: viz.

“ That as the term of Paterson’s Copy Right was about to expire, the Booksellers, he understood, intended to print a similar work of their own, and from

“ the command they had over the trade, they would be “ able to supersede and annihilate both Paterson’s Roads
 “ and Cary’s Itinerary: that the cause therefore if pur-
 “ sued, would tend ultimately to the benefit of others,
 “ and the injury of themselves; but that by an union of “ interests, and by continuing one book only under Mr.
 “ Cary’s title, the design of the Booksellers would be “ frustrated, and the Copy Right of a Book of Roads
 “ established for many years to come.”

To a proposal, so repugnant to the Statute of the 8th of Queen Anne, (which was intended to limit such monopolies) and so hostile to the Booksellers, the Proprietor of Paterson’s Roads sent the following reply:—“ That “ neither his character nor his feelings would allow him
 “ to enter into any such compromise or coalition.”

Thus foiled, Mr. Cary had no other resource but the chance of his action in the Court of King’s Bench; and accordingly, in the following term, on the 20th of February 1801, the cause was brought on, which terminated by a verdict for the Plaintiff—Damages one shilling.

After the decree above-mentioned in the Court of Chancery, the reader may be as much surprised as the Defendant himself was even at this verdict; a short account therefore must be given of the trial; the evidence on which, as far as may be necessary, shall be taken from Mr. Cary’s own Report.

The first witness called on the part of the Plaintiff, was Mr. Thomas Hasker, of the Post-Office, who had indeed held a share in Mr. Cary’s Itinerary, but who had withdrawn himself from the concern. He was the only person whose evidence was material, as to the proof of the agreement between the Post-Master-General and Mr. Cary; for no minute or document was produced from the Books or Records of the Office to shew the particulars of such agreement.

Mr. Hasker states, “ That he had received orders
 “ in the year 1794 from Lord Walsingham, to engage
 “ the Plaintiff to make a Survey of the different Roads “ throughout the Kingdom. The agreement was, that “ he should receive for his trouble nine pence per mile,
 “ which was no more than what he actually paid the “ people he employed; but as a remuneration for his “ trouble, it was a condition of his contract, that he “ should have the exclusive right of publishing the Sur“ vey (which was stated to be upwards of 9,000 miles)* and “ to dedicate it to the Post-Master-General; and further,
 “ to render the work as perfect as possible, it was stipu“ lated, that he should have official assistance, &c. &c.”

* If, as asserted by Mr. Cary in his printed Report of the Trial, (where it stands as above in a parenthesis) Mr. Hasker really gave this evidence as to the number of miles, it must have arisen from a misconception of the fact; for it turns out upon an examination of the Survey delivered into the Post-Office, that the actual admeasurement did not exceed 6,680 miles. The total number of miles in Mr. Cary's Book was 22,270, of which 6,680, (the sum of his Post-Office Survey) form a little more than one-fourth; but even in this small portion of the roads of the kingdom, there are only about 800 miles which had not been measured before. The difference of the distances between the old mile-stone measurements and Mr. Cary's survey are so very trifling, (merely a few furlongs from London to Glasgow, or to the Land's End) that the undertaking, exclusively of the above 800 miles, was a matter of no consequence to the Public in a general view. The

Another evidence for the Plaintiff was Mr. Herbert, one of the Surveyors who executed the work, and who deposed—" That the price given him by Mr. Cary was " nine pence per mile : his method of measuring was by " a perambulator (or wheel) and the orders he received " from the Plaintiff were to ascertain the whole of the " turnings branching or running out of the road he was " surveying, and to note every object of the smallest im- " portance, or that could be of use to the traveller, and the " exact distance of one stationary object from the other, " wherever it could be in any degree useful; and to in- " form himself, as he proceeded, of the name of the " resident of the different seats which came within his ob- " servation, as well as any other matter deserving notice."*

On the part of the Defendant, it was admitted by his Counsel, (as it had been fairly avowed in the title of his book) " That he had availed himself of the Plaintiff's official object was attained as to the regulation of the Mail Coaches; and it is remarkable, that in a book professing to be an official work, the greater part of the Mail Coach routes were incorrectly stated.

* The reader will observe, that for the nine pence per mile, the Surveyor not only measures the road, which was the sole object and commission of the Post-Office, but that he, in fact, makes the material part of the book as he goes on; so that the sum allowed to Mr. Cary was very ample in itself, without the exclusive right of printing the survey. It certainly was a good job to a surveyor in 1794, when the measurement was begun, and when the expenses of travelling, even to a pedestrian, were much more reasonable than at this time. But the Proprietor of Paterson's Roads has had, within these two years, many hundred miles surveyed, wherein " every object of the " smallest importance, &c. &c. was noted," at the inferior charge of six pence per mile.

“ publication, because he therein found his own property, “ namely, the greater part of Paterson's Book of the “ Roads, the Copy Right of which was then existing,
 “ under the Statute of Anne: the Plaintiff had not only “ taken the matter, but had even adopted the very plan
 “ and design of the work, as would appear by a compa“ rison ; that therefore Mr. Cary had not acquired such “ a property in a book so composed, as to entitle him to “ maintain his action.”

The Lord Chief Justice observed, “ That for the “ infringements the Plaintiff had made upon the work
 “ of the Defendant, the latter might have sought redress
 “ in a Court of Law, which having waved, his claims
 “ were not now before them; that it appeared in evidence,
 “ that Mr. Cary had undertaken to measure a great part
 “ of the kingdom at an inferior price, under an agree“ ment with the Post-Master-General, that he should “ have the exclusive right of publishing his survey, as a “ remuneration for his trouble: that as the said measure“ ment had been made at a great expense to the Post-“ Office, which the Post-Master-General had given to “ Mr. Cary, he must consider that as a Copy Right to “ which Mr. Cary was entitled: that it was not neces“ sary that a person should be the author of the whole
 “ of a book to give him such a right: that Mr. Mason had “ published an edition of Gray's works, which were pi“ rated by Mr. Murray, a bookseller; the greater part “ of which book had been long in the possession of the “ Public; but Mr. Murray was restrained from selling
 “ his edition, because it contained new and original

“ matter introduced by Mr. Mason : that Bishop Newton
 “ had in like manner a Copy Right to his Notes on “ Milton : any body might publish Milton, but not with “ Bishop Newton’s Notes : and after an eulogium on the “ character of the Defendant, Lord Kenyon said, that no“ minal damages would satisfy the justice of this cause.”

The Jury accordingly gave a verdict for the Plaintiff
 —Damages one shilling.

Such was the judgment of the Court of King’s Bench, in direct opposition to the decree of the Court of Chancery. The Proprietor of Paterson’s Roads bows nevertheless to its decision with obedience and respect. But in regard to his own character he submits to the Public a few observations, which naturally arise out of the circumstances.

It is a maxim, “ that a suitor should come into a Court of Justice with clean hands.”—And by the common law, if a person be assaulted, and he return a blow, which shall do his adversary a greater injury, he is not liable to consequences, because he is not the aggressor.

Mr. Cary stands in this light. He invaded the right of a book, within the protection of the Statute. The works, however, of Gray and Milton, as quoted by the Lord Chief-Justice, were not within that protection.

With respect to the Post-Office admeasurement, which was the main object of the charge, (the Lord Chief Justice having discarded the other claims) the Proprietor of Paterson’s Book can with truth assert, that he was ignorant of any agreement whatever between the Post-Master-General and Mr. Cary, which could confer an exclusive right.—He knew that the survey was paid for by the Post-Office, which Mr. Cary had obtained the liberty of publishing; and he naturally concluded, that after it was delivered out for publication, it was the property of that Public for whose use and at whose expense it had been made.

The Proprietor of Paterson's Roads might have rested his defence here, if he had not been charged, in a second edition of the Itinerary, with a want of due regard to truth. Of the incorrectness of the New Itinerary, some notable specimens have already been given, and whether this assertion be well or ill founded, the books themselves will be the best evidence; but to those who may not have leisure or inclination to make the comparison, the Appendix, drawn up by Mr. Thomas Keith, the Editor of this Work, who prepared the former edition, as well as the present, and who of course has canvassed every page of the two books, will perhaps afford a satisfactory testimony.

It is now time for me to quit the Title of Proprietor of Paterson's Roads, and in my own name to acknowledge my obligations to Mr. Keith, for the very great care and attention he has bestowed upon this Work; and for which, I trust, he will meet with the approbation and applause of the old friends of this useful publication. I am the more indebted to him, because he undertook the conduct of it, purely to serve me; and that, too, when his own professional engagements, as a Teacher of Geography and Mathematics, left him but little time to spare.—This circumstance, with the new arrangements, and alterations, (improvements we hope) which are made in this edition, together with the great mass of materials he had to go through; and which could only be accurately performed by one person, will account for the long delay, now upwards of two years, of this publication.

It is incumbent upon me also to express my gratitude to all those who have kindly contributed their aid towards the completion of this Work. To the Right Honorable Lord Auckland, and Lord Charles Spencer, who now fill the office of Post-Master-General; and who on my application to them, were pleased to intimate their readiness “to afford every assistance that their office or officers could furnish towards facilitating an undertaking of great and acknowledged utility, and to direct that such instructions should be immediately given, as might best promote the purposes in view.”

For the active and continual attentions of Francis Freeling, Esq. Secretary of the Post-Office, my thanks are a small return indeed, as well as for the very material and numerous communications I received through his assiduities, from persons in all parts of the kingdom.— They are also particularly due to those Gentlemen, who execute the functions of Surveyors of the Post-Office, in the several provincial districts: namely, to George Hodgson, Esq.—Samuel Lott, Esq.—Samuel Woodcock, Esq.—Christopher Saverland, Esq.—George Western, Esq.—Barnaby Bartlett, Esq.—and Leonard Aust, Esq.—who, from their constant and reiterated surveys and observations, have afforded the most valuable and correct information, and have indeed, acted fully up to the spirit of the instructions issued by the Post-Master-General.

My obligations are likewise due to the Honourable the Commissioners of the Stamp-Office, for the List of the Inns, &c. in different parts of the kingdom which supply post-horses: as well as to Charles Edward Beresford, Esq. Secretary to that Board, for his readiness and civility in communicating the same.

Also, to my worthy and intelligent friend, Mr. Faden, of Charing Cross, who furnished me with every information, which could be derived from the real surveys and measurements he has made for the maps of the counties, and for other documents; as likewise for his kindness in procuring for me the liberty of publishing the Measurements of the Heights of Mountains and other Eminences, so accurately taken in the grand trigonometrical survey of the kingdom, by the very ingenious Major Mudge; to whom also I feel greatly indebted for the liberal manner in which he did me the honour to communicate the same, as well as for an assurance, that I may depend upon every information that the further progress of this great undertaking can supply.

My acknowledgments ought in like manner to be made for a variety of corrections to Humphry Repton, Esq. a gentleman whose tasteful and creative mind has contributed so much towards the improvement of the natural beauties of our country: and to the Reverend Mr. Arden, of Wolverhampton, for many sheets of alterations and additions, closely written on folio paper, for the last edition. Also, to a very old Correspondent, a great traveller, who has never honoured us with his name; but from whom we have been wont to receive, from time to time, the most valuable suggestions and amendments. Likewise to a great number of Gentlemen, who have occasionally transmitted, through the publishers, hints, corrections, and actual admeasurements, particularly of the Cross Roads.—Of such favours we shall solicit a continuance; for with all our care, the Book, from its nature, must be liable to errors, more especially in regard to the occupiers of the Country Seats; which from death, or from the alienation of property, will ever be subject to a change of inhabitants.

But though last in order of notice, not least am I bound in gratitude, for his very ready offers of service, and of his sanction, to the worthy Author of this useful Publication, Lieutenant Colonel Paterson, who has no concern whatever in the Work, and whom I had not the pleasure of knowing, till after the wilful and unprovoked attack upon my property.

To the same cause also may be ascribed perhaps, much more of the very respectable support and assistance with which I have been honoured; as well as the stimulus to exertion which has led to a re-composition and re-arrangement of the Book, from the beginning to the end; and to the acquisition of original matter, in which will be found a great variety of new admeasurements, particularly of those roads which are most frequented, and on which the exact distances had never been ascertained. In short, neither expense nor pains have been spared to render the Work complete; and it is hoped it will be found superior to every other Book of the kind.

FRA. NEWBERY.

May 20th, 1803.

\ * * In consequence of the bulk to which this Book has been swelled, the Roads, in this edition, go no farther North than Edinburgh, Glasgow, and their vicinities; but a new edition is preparing of the Roads of Scotland, which will be published in a separate little Volume, for the convenience of those who travel over that part of the kingdom*

EXPLANATORY OF THE WORK.

THE first edition of this Book, which was printed in the year 1771, consisted only of 154 pages of roads. It has been in a state of progressive increase and improvement, insomuch that the present (the thirteenth) contains 840 pages, nearly 200 more than the twelfth edition, exclusively of the Roads of Scotland, and of the Inns at the end of each route, which occupied a considerable portion of that Book. The Inns, (viz. those only which supply Post Horses) are now to be found in the General Index, under the name of the Place to which the traveller has to refer; and in order to preclude partiality by a priority of insertion, they are given alphabetically where more than one.

In the former editions, two Indexes were given; one for the Direct, the other for the Cross Roads; and these, not unfrequently, occasioned interruption. Simplicity in works of this kind, is always to be desired, and to effect this, and to prevent reiteration and confusion, a new General Index has been contrived, in which it has been endeavoured to bring every necessary matter of reference and instruction before the eye at one view. This Index is explained at the beginning of it; but in order that it may be more clearly understood, the following additional observations are here given.—A specimen of the Index, see the first page.

Dis	186 Abberford, Yorksh. W. 337. Swan	Dis	— Abeggavenny, Monm. Tu. Angel,
129	Abbots Bromley, Staff. M. 315.		Greyhound
	Cross , 550	146	— by Ragland , 218
127	Abbotsbury, Dorset , Th. 97	151	— by Tregare , 183
190	Abbots Kerswell, Devon , 140		Cross , 532, 710

EXPLANATION,—Abberford, is in Yorkshire, has a market on Wednesdays, the direct road to it will be found at page 337, the inn which supplies post-horses is the Swan, and its direct distance from London is 186 miles.

Abbots Bromley, is in Staffordshire, has a market on Mondays, the direct road to it will be found at page 315, the cross road passing through it will be found at page 550, and its direct distance from London is 129 miles.

When there are more than one road leading to any place of note, the different routes are all pointed out; as, Abergavenny is in Monmouthshire, has a market on Tuesdays, the inns which supply post-horses are the Angel and the Greyhound. The route by Ragland is at page 213, and the distance from London is 146 miles; the route by Tregare, is at page 183, and the distance from London is 151 miles. The cross roads passing through Abergavenny are described at pages 532 and 710, &c. —Only one observation more is necessary to render the whole perfectly clear.—Sometimes a town which has one, or more inns, and different roads leading to it, falls at the bottom of a page in the Index; as Birmingham at page xii, Gloucester at page xlvii, Kettering at page lxii, &c. and it has been necessary to repeat it in the following page.—The traveller will never make a mistake, if, when he meets with the name of a place at the bottom of a page, he likewise examines the top of the following page; or if he should find a place at the top of any page, by examining the bottom of the preceding page, he will lose no part of the information which the Index contains.

Some other alterations will also be found in this edition, particularly with respect to the turnings to the right and left of the main road, denoted by the initials r. and l. where the distances are given to the nearest town, or remarkable village, which it is hoped will prove a matter of convenience as well as of useful information to the traveller. But another advantage has resulted from this addition of the lateral distances, namely, by affording an opportunity of giving the road to a place of note which lies a little out of a main road, so as not to interrupt the principal route, and to avoid reiteration. Thus, from London to Dover, (page 1) the road by lateral references is continued to Gravesend, Chatham, Milton, and Faversham; and, of course, they are not afterwards repeated. These places are printed in Italics, and the figures of distances are dropped short. This scheme has been found particularly useful in the Cross Roads, in compressing the Work. A great number of new measurements have likewise been made, particularly of those roads which are now much frequented, and where the distances had never before been ascertained. These are distinguished by the capital letters (N. M.) at the commencement of the route.

The distances of the Direct Roads from London are measured from the old standards, London Bridge, Westminster Bridge, Hyde Park Corner, &c. &c., in order that the reckoning may correspond as much as possible with the mile-stones; and the words in Italics immediately following the places to which the measurement is given, shew the exact points of distance; but the Italic words in a smaller type point out where the roads lead to, which branch off to the right and left; and these are so inserted, in order that the attention may not be interrupted (unless at the pleasure of the reader) from the continuity of the main road, which is described in Roman letters.—Thus the road from London to Ryegate stands as described in the right hand column following; but had the Work been printed as in the former editions of Paterson, it would have stood as in the left hand column, and as the eye of the traveller is guided to the distances by dotted lines, those travellers who have been accustomed to the former editions of Paterson, will, it is hoped, (from the following specimen) as easily comprehend this edition as any of the preceding.

The Roads are arranged in the following order :

1. The Kent roads are measured from the Surrey side of London Bridge, through Kent Street.

2. The Kingston road is measured from the Stone's end in the Borough, near the King's Bench ; but our distances are given from the Surrey side of London Bridge, through Newington.

3. The Croydon, Ryegate, and Epsom roads, are measured from the Surrey side of Westminster Bridge.

4. The Brentford road, is measured from Hyde Park Corner.

5. The Uxbridge and Edgware roads, are measured from Tyburn Turnpike.

Note. The Hampstead road is measured from Holborn Bars, near Gray's Inn Lane, and from the bottom of Oxford Street, where St. Giles's Pound formerly stood.

6. The Barnet road is measured from the place where Hicks' Hall formerly stood, viz. the end of St. John's Lane, St. John's Street, West Smithfield ; and this extends through all the northern parts of England.

7. The Ware road, is measured from Shoreditch Church.

8. The Essex road, is measured from Whitechapel Church.

DIRECTIONS FOR FINDING THE ROADS.

The measurements, which are taken in miles, halves, and quarters of miles, are arranged in two columns, the first, giving the distance from one city, town, or village, to the next; the second, the number of miles from the commencement of the road. And (for the farther amusement of the traveller) at the end of each road is given a brief account of whatever is worthy of observation; such as Parks, Seats, Castles, Ruins, &c.

To find the road from London to any City, Town, or remarkable Village, in England or Wales, look for the name of the place in the General Index to the Roads, and the figures to the right hand thereof; refer to the page in which is that part of the road containing the place looked for; thus, from London to Durham, the Index directs you to page 420, where you find Durham with its distance from London, &c. though the description of the road in which it is situated (being that from London to Edinburgh) begins in page 275, and ends in page 422. Thus the road between Durham and Boroughbridge is contained in pages 420 and 419; between Boroughbridge and Barnet, in pages 337, 336, 335, 334, 333, and 332; and between Barnet and London in page 275: hence the whole route from Durham to London, or from London to Durham is traced.—To avoid every possibility of mistake, we shall give a similar instance, where the distance is shorter, and consequently where the road is divided into fewer parts. Thus, to find the road from London to Tilbury Fort, in Essex, by Romford, the Index refers you to page 505, where you will find the road in the following form :

To ¶ Romford, Essex , p. 499 -	—	11½
In the middle of the town, r. to
Hornchurch - - - - -	2½	14
Upminster - - - - -	1½	15½

Greys Thurrock - - - - -	2½	24½
Little Thurrock - - - - -	1	25½
West Tilbury - - - - -	1½	27
Tilbury Fort - - - - -	1½	28½

By which it appears, you are referred to page 499 for this road, as far as Romford (the last remarkable place on the great road, or the last place you pass through before the road turns off), thence the remainder of the road to Tilbury Fort is given, after the above form, in page 505, as directed by the Index. These references are made use of, in order to prevent the numberless repetitions, which otherwise would unavoidably occur in a work of this kind, and swell it to a very inconvenient size.

The roads which are pointed out as branching to the right and left, by the initials r. and l., are, in general, turnpike roads; but the distinction is not expressed, as persons who go in carriages are often deceived, from the natural expectation that turnpikes should be good roads; it is therefore recommended to all travellers, to make previous enquiry into the state of them, as many of the cross turnpike roads are, in winter time, and often after wet weather, rendered almost impassable.

A skeleton map of England and Wales is given with this book; but those travellers who wish for a more copious accommodation of this sort, may be supplied with a map of Great Britain, in one large sheet, prepared by Mr. Faden, on purpose for this work; and it may be had either at his house, Charing Cross, or of Messrs. Longman and Rees, in Paternoster Row.

I.

GREAT AND DIRECT ROADS

MEASURED FROM THE

SURREY SIDE of LONDON BRIDGE through KENT STREET,

With the ROADS branching from them to Market and Sea-Port TOWNS.

The Towns printed in CAPITALS are Cities; those marked with ¶ are Market Towns. The letters r. and l. signify the right and left of the Road; T. G. Turnpike Gate; M. H. Market House; P. O. Post Office; N. M. New Measurement. The Words in Italics, immediately following the Places to which the Measurement is directed, shew the exact Point of Distance. The Italic Words, in a smaller Type, point out where the Roads lead to, which branch off from the Right and Left, with the Number of Miles to the nearest Market Town, or remarkable Village, and other useful Information.

The First Column of Figures contains the Distance from one Village or Town to another, in Miles, Halves, and Quarters; the Second the Distance from London; and the Eye of the Traveller is guided to these Distances by dotted Lines, from the respective Places through which his Route is directed.

From the Surrey Side of London Bridge to the	M. R. P.
Turnpike-gate opposite the Bricklayers' Arms - - -	1 0 15

From the Surrey Side of Westminster Bridge to ditto - - -	1 5 39
From the General Post Office in Lombard Street, through Kent Street, to ditto - - - - -	1 4 13

So that the Distances on the Kent Road, from Blackfriars or Westminster Bridge, are about  $\frac{1}{4}$  of a Mile farther than from London Bridge through Kent Street; and, by adding  $\frac{1}{4}$  a Mile to any of the Distances on the Kent Roads, you have the Distances from the General Post Office.

From the General Post Office, through the Borough, to ditto - - - - -	2 6 38

The Mile-stones on the Portsmouth Road, as far as Sheet Bridge, are reckoned from the Stones' End (near the King's Bench), in the Borough of Southwark, which is distant from the Surrey Side of London Bridge 6 Furlongs and 16 Poles.

Beyond Sheet Bridge, the Mile-stones shew the Distance from the Standard in Cornhill, from whence the whole of this Road was formerly measured; hence the Distances in the following Route will be  $\frac{1}{2}$  of a Mile too great, as far as Sheet Bridge, for the 20th Mile-stone stands within the Town of Guildford: but beyond Sheet Bridge, they will be too little, according to the Mile-stones from the Standard in Cornhill.

The Farnham Road, beyond Guildford, is measured from the Standard in Cornhill, and the Chichester Road from London Bridge.—Our Distances are all taken from London Bridge, and the addition of  $\frac{1}{2}$  a Mile will give the Distances from the General Post Office.

At Milford, Mrs. Webb.
 At Witley, on l, Rev. John Chandler.
 Beyond Cripple Crouch Hill, on l, Shillingly Park, Earl of Winterton.
 At Fisher's Street, great quantities of charcoal are made for Government.
 On r. of Fisher's Street, Black Down Hill, on the side of which is an old house, R. Yaldwyn, Esq.
 At Petworth, an elegant seat and Park, formerly the Duke of Somerset, now Earl of Egremont.
 At Fittleworth, on l, Walt. Smith, Esq.
 From Bury Hill, on l, see Parham Park, Sir Cecil Bishopp, Bart.
 From the top of Houghton Hill, a most commanding and beautiful view of the sea and the country adjacent, with the windings of the river Aran.
 At Arundel, the Castle, a Seat of the Duke of Norfolk. Whoever possesses this seat, as owner, becomes Earl of Arundel, without any patent or creation from the Crown. No other spot in England possesses this peculiar dignity. It was given by the Empress Maud to William de Albani, as a recompence for his defence of it against King Stephen. It descended to the Norfolk Family in 1570. The present Duke has expended great sums of money in the improvement of this noble place.

Going up Haldon Hill, see, on r, at a distance, Haldon House, Sir Law. Palk, Bart.

On l. of Haldon Hill, Castle Lawrence, built in honour of the late Gea. Lawrence.

From the top of Haldon Hill, towards the left, you have a fine view of the city of Exeter, and Topsham, Lymptone, and Exmouth, on the left bank of the river Exe.

On the right bank of the Exe may be seen Powderham Castle, Lord Viscount Courtenay; beyond it, the woods of the Earl of Lisburne, and the river Exe to the sea. You likewise have a view of Mount Radford, the Seat of John Baring, Esq.; Nutfield, Lord Heathfield, &c.

On r, see High Tor Rocks, one on the point of a hill, the other in the centre of a dip in the hill; they are visible all the way to Totness, but as you go on appear almost close together. They are a sea mark.

Eleven miles from Exeter, on r, Ugbrook, Lord Clifford; and beyond it, on l, Lyndridge, — Baring, Esq.

On l. of Newton Bushel, Knoles; and a little beyond, on r, Broadridge; which, with several other points near them, afford some of the most pleasing and picturesque prospects that can any where be found.

A mile and a half beyond Bow, on l, Berry Castle, Dow. Duchess of Somerset.

At Singleburn, on l, — Watton, Esq.

Milford is noted for the excellence of its Haven, in which a thousand sail of ships may ride in perfect safety. It is the safest and most capacious Harbour in the British Dominions, but its utility is greatly diminished by its remote situation from the Metropolis.

A Packet Boat sails from this place (as soon as the Mail arrives) every evening but Tuesday, for Waterford in Ireland.

On r. of Red Marley, Down House, Hon. John Somers Cochr's, Esq.

Near Ledbury, on r, Castleditch, Lord Somers; and in the Colwell road to Great Malvern, Hope End, Sir Henry Vane Tempest, Bart. The views from this seat are extensive and picturesque.

At Stoke Edith, on l, Hon. Edward Foley.

At Dormington, Walwyn Sheppard, Esq.

On l. of Dormington, in the road to Hereford by Mordiford, Sufton Court, Sir James Hereford, Bart. This seat has been in the possession of the family ever since the year 1223, the 7th of Henry III.

On l. of Bartestree, Longworth, Capt. James Walwyn. From Loagworth, see on l, at Hampton Bishop, the seat of John Pepl's Birch, Esq., and across the river Wye, Rotheras, — Boddenham, Esq., and Holm, Duke of Norfolk.

On r. of New Ware, see Creden Hill, the Magna Castra of the Romans, Edm. Eckley, Esq.; on l, William Parry, Esq.

Near Bridge Sollers, on r, Kenchester, a Roman Station where several antiquities have been found.

On l, at the 6th mile-stone, a view of the Wye; Shipton Hill on r, whence is a fine view to the south, over a valley fruitful in corn, watered by the Wye, and terminated by mountains covered with oak. See in this valley the Churches of Preston upon Wye and Byford.

Beyond Bridge Sollers, on r, Garnons, J. G. Cotterell, Esq.

On l. of Portway, Monington, the property of Sir George Cornwall.

Bart. This was the estate of the famous Owen Glendour, in the time of Henry IV., who is said to have retired here, and was buried in the Church. On the south side of the Wye, nearly opposite, Moccas Court, Sir George Cornwall, Bart.

On r. of Hanmer's Cross, Letton Court, John Freeman, Esq.

On l., pass over Tin Hill, from which you have a fine view to the right.

At Bredwardine was formerly a Castle, now destroyed, but the foundations remain near the Church.

After crossing the Wye near Bredwardine, leave Burbridge Hill to the south; a fine valley to the north, watered by the Wye, on the north bank of which are the villages of Letton, Willersley, Winfertou, and Whitney. — Letton Court, the seat of John Freeman, Esq., has already been noticed; Whitney is the most westerly of the above villages, at which is a seat of Mrs. Dewe.

Beyond Bredwardine you pass over a high Hill, called Penna Park, belonging to Sir George Cornwall, Bart., in the parish of Clifford.

From this Hill, see on r., at Clifford, the ruins of a Castle which was the estate of, and gave names to the Lords Clifford, afterwards Earls of Cumberland, but was exchanged by them with the Crown, in the reign of Edward I. for Skipton in Yorkshire, still enjoyed by their descendants.

At Hardwick, John Stallard, Esq., and about a mile and a half farther, the Moor, — Penoyre, Esq.

Brecoa is a market town, situated on a Hill south of the Wye, at which place there has formerly been a Castle, now nearly destroyed, and a house is built on the scite, belonging to Rich. Wellington, Esq.

Within a mile of Glasbury, on the North Bank of the Wye, Maeslough Hall, W. Wilkins, Esq.

Near Glasbury, Tregoyd, Lord Visc. Hereford.

A mile to the l. of Glasbury, Gwer-nalt Lodge, Sir Edward Williams, Bart.; farther to the l., see Talgarth Church, Hill, and Forest, where are the remains of an ancient Castle.

Four miles to the r. of Glasbury, on l. of the road to Builth, Llangoed Castle, John Macnamara, Esq.

On l. of Brunllys, Tregunter House, built by Mr. Harris, now — Hughes, Esq.

Through Brunllys, on r., Pontwell Hall, — Phillips, Esq.

About a mile on l. of Brunllys, Aberenyg Place, H. Allen, Esq.

Trevecka lies about three miles to the l. of Brunllys, it was noted for the late Lady Huntingdon's Methodist College, containing eleven Students with their Tutor, and for another foundation by Howel Harris, Esq., where seventy men and boys are fed, clothed, and employed, chiefly on the turnpike road. — Lady Huntingdon's College is removed to Hackney.

About two miles to the l. of Pandrig, on Winander Meer, opposite Bowness, Belle Isle, J. C. Curwen, Esq.
At Calgarth near Ambleside, a seat of the Bishop of Llandaff.

Low Wood, a very good Inn on the margin of Winander Meer, of which from the Bowling Green you have one of the most magnificent views.

From Pandrig, by Low Wood, to Ambleside, you pass along the banks of Winander Meer, the most extensive Lake in England; it is about ten miles in length, and about a mile broad in the widest part, in one place it is 222 feet deep; it abounds with trout, perch, pike and eels, and is likewise noted for its fine char.

Near Rydal, Rydal Hall, Sir Michael Fleming, Bart. Here are two fine Cascades, of which the smaller, from the summer-house, is truly beautiful.

From Rydal the road passes on the two beautiful Lakes of Rydal and Grassmere, and afterwards by Thurle or Leathes Water at the foot of the Helvellyn Mountain, 3,324 feet perpendicular.

Dunmail Raise, is a heap of stones, raised or thrown up by Dunmail, King of Cumberland, at the boundary. This Pass into Cumberland is generally called Rais-Gap.

On l. of Thurlisport, on Thurle Meer, Dale Head, — Leathes, Esq.

On l. of Keswick is the Derwent Water, three miles long and one mile and a half broad, containing several little islands. Borrowdale, which lies to the south of the Derwent Water, contain mines of the finest black lead.

Near Keswick, is Skiddaw, one of the most remarkable Mountains in the Kingdom, 3,270 feet perpendicular.

On r. of Cockermouth, Ann's Hill, John Friends, Esq.

In the road to Maryport, at Dovenby, Dovenby Hall, L. D. Ballantine, Esq.

On r. of Dovenby, at Tallentire, Wm Brown, Esq.

On r. of Maryport, Nether Hall, H. Senhouse, Esq. Maryport is better known to the country people by the old name of Ellenfoot. When Mr. Senhouse got it made a market, he called it Maryport, in compliment to his wife.

At Brandsburton, the Rev. Mr. Shepherd. The principal part of the village of Brandsburton was left by Lady Dacre, under the management of the Lord Mayor and Aldermen of the city of London, for the support of Emanuel Hospital, near York-street, Westminster. This Hospital was founded in 1601, and the city of London received only £200. a year from the above village, which was held on a lease of 99 years by the Bethell family. The lease has now expired, and the income from this village is very considerable.

The Trigonometrical Survey of the Kingdom has, at present, extended only over Part of the Southern District; but as this great Undertaking is in Progress, we are authorised by Major MUDGE to promise a very considerable Increase of the Table of Heights in our next Edition.

N. B. The Altitudes which are inserted in our Book, are not to be depended upon, unless they are included in the foregoing Table; with the exception of the Sugar Loaf Mountain, near Abergavenny, which was taken by the late General Roy.

PACKET BOATS

EMPLOYED BY THE
GENERAL POST OFFICE,

WITH THE
DAYS on which they sail from their respective PORTS ;
Wind and Weather permitting.

I. From DOVER to CALAIS.

The Mails for France are made up Tuesdays, Wednesdays, Thursdays, and Fridays; and the PACKET sails from Dover on Wednesday and Saturday Afternoon, and on Thursday and Friday, about Seven in the Morning.

II. From HARWICH to HELVORTSLUYS.

The Mails are made up for Holland on Tuesday and Friday Evenings; and the PACKET sails from Harwich on the following Evening. The Mails, in return, are due at the General Post-office, in London, on Monday and Friday.

III. From HARWICH to CUXHAVEN on the ELBE.

The Mails are made up for the North of Europe, in London, on Tuesday and Friday Evenings. A PACKET sails the following Evening, and returns from Cuxhaven twice a week; and the Days on which they may be expected to arrive, are Sundays and Wednesdays.

IV. From FALMOUTH to AMERICA.

The Mails are made up in London, on the first Wednesday of every Month, for Halifax, Quebec, and New York; the PACKET sails from Falmouth, on Saturday Evening, soon after the Arrival of the Mails; and goes and returns by Halifax, to and from New York, every Month; except November, December, January, and February.

V. From FALMOUTH to the WEST INDIES.

The Mails are made up twice a Month, in London, for the West Indies:—on the first Wednesday, for Jamaica and the Leeward Islands; and, on the third Wednesday, for the Leeward Islands only. The PACKET sails from Falmouth, on Saturday Evening, soon after the Arrival of the Mails.

VI. From FALMOUTH to LISBON.

The Lisbon Mail is made up in London, every Tuesday Night, and is generally sent from Falmouth on Saturday Morning.

VII. From HOLYHEAD to DUBLIN.

A PACKET sails from Holyhead to Dublin, every Evening except Tuesday, as soon as the Mail arrives; and returns every Day from Dublin, Sundays excepted.—Distance 90 Leagues.

VIII. From MILFORD to WATERFORD.

A PACKET sails from Milford-Haven to Waterford, every Evening, except Tuesday, as soon as the Mail arrives.—Distance 28 Leagues.

IX. From PORT PATRICK to DONAGHADEE.

A PACKET sails from Port Patrick to Donaghadee, every Evening, as soon as the Mail arrives.—Distance  $3\frac{1}{2}$  Leagues.

X. From WEYMOUTH to GUERNSEY and JERSEY.

The Mail is made up in London, every Friday Night. The PACKET sails from Weymouth on Saturday, between Four and Five o'Clock in the Afternoon, and returns the Thursday or Friday following.—Distance 35 Leagues.

XI. From WHITEHAVEN to the ISLE OF MAN.

A PACKET sails from Whitehaven to the Isle of Man, once a Week, and returns as often.

INDEX TO THE COUNTRY SEATS.

A P P E N D I X,

BY THE

EDITOR OF THIS WORK,

IN PROOF

Of the truth of the assertions contained in the advertisement to the twelfth edition of Paterson's Roads; which have been termed unwarrantable, and without any regard to truth, by Mr. Cary, in the second edition of his New Itinerary.

These proofs have not been transcribed from the two books, but actually cut out with a pair of scissors from the printed copies, of the edition of Paterson of 1796, and that of Mr. Cary's Itinerary of 1798, in order to shew the comparison more correctly.

PATERSON'S Preface, 1796.

The Measurements, which are taken in Miles, Halves and Quarters of Miles, are arranged in two Columns, the first giving the Distance from one City, Town, or Village, to the next; the second, the number of Miles from the Commencement of the Road.

To find the Road from London to any City, Town, or remarkable Village, in England or Wales, look for the Name of the Place in the Index to the Roads from London, and the Figure opposite to it refers to the Page in which is that Part of the Road containing the Place looked for; thus, from London to Durham, the Index directs you to Page 168, where you find Durham with its distance from London, &c. though the Description of the Road in which it is situated (being that from London to Edinburgh) begins in Page 165, and ends in Page 168.

CARY'S Preface, 1798.

The Measurements, which are taken in Miles and Furlongs, are arranged in Columns, the first and second giving the Distance from one City, Town, or Village, to the next; the third and fourth, the Number of Miles from the Commencement of the Road.

Suppose you want the Road from London to York—look for the Name of that Place in the Index to the Direct Roads from London, and the Figure opposite to it refers to the Page in which is that Part of the Road containing York, though the Description of the Road in which it is situated (being that from London to Edinburgh and Aberdeen) begins in Page 258, and ends in Page 268.

PATERSON'S Preface, 1796.

CARY'S Preface, 1798.

In describing the less Roads branching out from the greater, the last remarkable Place on the great Road, or the Spot where the less turns off, is first given, with a Reference to the Place in which you will find the Road so far as to that Place; and afterwards the Branch is continued: as, for Instance, to find the Road from London to Chertsey, in Surry, the Index refers you to Page 50, where you find it in the following Form, viz.

To Hounslow, p. 31.		9½

Surry

By which it appears you are referred to Page 31 for this Road, as far as Hounslow; (the last remarkable Place on the great Road,) thence the Remainder of the Road to Chertsey is given after the above Form in Page 50, as directed by the Index. These References are made use of in order to prevent the numberless Repetitions, which otherwise would unavoidably occur in a Work of this Kind.

In looking for the Cross Roads, Recourse must likewise be had to their Index, which is so plain as to require no farther Explanation than what is there mentioned.

In describing the less Roads branching out from the greater, the last remarkable Place on the great Road, or the Spot where the lesser turns off, is first given, with a Reference to the Place in which you will find the Road so far as to that Place; and afterwards the Branch is continued; as, for instance, to find the Road from London to Weymouth, the Index refers you for Weymouth to Page 63, where you find it in the following Form, viz.

To Dorchester, p. 36		123-
Brodeway	47	1377
Melcomb Regis	23	1304
Weymouth	4	131-

By which it appears you are referred to Page 36 for this Road as far as Dorchester (the last remarkable Place on the great Road); thence the Remainder of the Road to Weymouth is given after the above Form in Page 63, as directed by the Index. These References are made use of in order to prevent the numberless Repetitions, which would otherwise unavoidably occur, and thereby swell the Book to an inconvenient Size.

The Index to the Cross Roads, it is conceived, is made sufficiently copious, and will be found so decisive in its Purpose as to need no farther Explanation than what is given at the Beginning of it.

OBSERVATIONS.—When an author composes a book entirely new, it is usual to introduce it with a new Preface, shewing the advantages of his work over those of others who have written on the same subject. The above extracts clearly prove that Mr. Cary's book is not entirely new, at least in this instance, for it is Paterson's in punctuation, capital letters, Italic type, parentheses, &c.

PATERSON'S Index to the Direct Roads, 1796.

The First Column contains the Name of the Place; the Second, the County it lies in; the Third, its Market Days; and the Fourth, the Page in which the Road is to be found.

OBSERVATIONS.—The above Indexes contain only the market and post towns. The number of places in Paterson's amount to 1129, those in Cary to 1071; and yet, on the trial in the Court of King's Bench, the Editor of Paterson was accused with copying Mr. Cary's plan of Index!

INDEX TO THE COUNTRY SEATS.

In this Index the Name of every Possessor of a Seat is given, as well as the Name of the Seat itself, wherever it has a distinctive Appellation.

OBSERVATIONS.—Paterson's was the first Book of Roads that ever had an Index to the Country Seats, the plan was suggested by a Gentleman at Scarborough, whose name the Editor does not, at present, recollect. However, it is very evident that Mr. Cary has adopted the plan entirely in his Work, though in his Report of the Trial, the Editor of Paterson is charged with having adopted Mr. Cary's plan ! It is likewise deposed, that Paterson's Index of Seats, in his eleventh edition, contained only 1125 names, and that his twelfth edition of 1799, had Mr. Cary's number, viz. 3875

An increase of 2750

But the truth is, that Paterson's eleventh edition contained 1988 names, amounting to 868 more than the number above stated, and his twelfth edition only 3405, which is 470 names less than the number stated ; and out of the 3405 must be deducted the seats in Scotland (which are not in Mr. Cary's Book) and therefore the evidence given on the trial is more erroneous.

The Editor of Paterson will now proceed to shew, that Mr. Cary has copied Mr. Paterson's Roads, as well as his Preface and Indexes.

OBSERVATIONS.—Instead of miles and fractional parts, Mr. Cary has adopted the division of miles and furlongs; but the distances are exactly Paterson's, who has made a mistake in his column, which Mr. Cary has copied. —From Great Baddow to Maldon, where the words Danbury and Runsells occur, is 7¼ miles, as will be seen by adding up the columns, and just below (in the same road) it is stated to be 8¼ miles.

OBSERVATIONS.—If Mr. Cary had added his column correctly together, his reference to Monkton would have been 67 miles, and his distance to Ramsgate 74, instead of being the same as Paterson's. OBSERVATIONS.—Here Mr. Cary's reference is 29½ miles, exactly like Paterson's; but had he been correct, by his own Book, it would have been 29 miles 1 furlong.—In Mr. Cary's 11th page, it is 15½ miles from Hawk-hurst to Rye, as in Paterson's 8th page, instead of 14 miles 7 furlongs, see Mr. Cary's 13th page.—Mr. Cary has retained these very errors in the 16th and 20th pages of his new editions.

OBSERVATIONS.—Mr. Cary has marked the whole of this road G. P. O. though the Post-Office survey extends no farther than Ludlow. From Ludlow to Montgomery he gives Paterson's distances, though erroneous. From Cann's Office to Dynasmouthy is stated by Mr. Cary to be 7½ miles, instead of 13; another instance of the incorrectness of his Work! There are

By the specimens already given, the public will be able to judge whether the assertions contained in the Advertisement to the Twelfth Edition of Paterson's Roads be true or false. In order to contract this Appendix, the Editor has suppressed a very great number of similar instances, and will now conclude with

A FEW GENERAL REMARKS ON MR. CARY'S BOOK OF THE ROADS.

It is stated (in Mr. Cary's account of the trial) " That the situation of Turnpikes, Finger Posts to all roads branching off right and left the Points of Distance, and Lists of Inns, are original, and the peculiar characteristics of Mr. Cary's plan." These four original features will be examined in order.

1. The situation of Turnpikes have been noticed in various parts of Paterson, two occur in the very beginning of his Book, viz. Harbledown Turnpike, and Ewell Turnpike, and two more may be seen at p. 905 and 906 of this Appendix, which Mr. Cary has copied, viz. Wrotham Heath Turnpike, and Basing Turnpike. The turnpikes are likewise noticed in Armstrong's Survey of the North Roads, &c. and in most of the County Maps published by Mr. Faden, viz. Sussex, Hampshire, Norfolk, &c. &c.

2. The Finger Posts to all roads branching off right and left. If by the Finger Posts Mr. Cary would wish the traveller to understand that all the Guide Posts have been noticed on the roads throughout the Book, the Editor of Paterson would enquire how the Guide Posts have been obtained on the several roads quoted in this Appendix? Not a Guide Post is marked in the Post Office survey, the plan of which is the same as Ogilby's Survey, Britannia Depicta by Owen, and Paterson's Itinerary, only it is considerably more contracted in the extent of the branches to the right and left. The idea of these branches therefore cannot have originated with Mr. Cary, nor did the Post-Office survey afford him any means of extending them, he had no other guide than what the Editor of Paterson had for the last edition of Paterson's Roads, viz. the County Maps.

3. The Points of Distance. So far as the Post-Office survey extends, (viz. 6630 miles, or a little more than one-fourth of Mr. Cary's Book) the points of distance are regularly noted, but the idea is not original; for in Owen's Britannia Depicta, which is stated to be a correct copy of Ogilby's Survey, (and which appears to be the fact by a comparison) the points of distance, such as Churches, Castles, Bridges, Rivers, Brooks, &c. are all regularly noted. The same has been done by Colonel Paterson in several parts of his Itinerary, by Armstrong in his Survey of the North Roads, &c. &c. and by Mr. Faden in his County Maps, some of which are very particular in this respect, see his Map of Norfolk, where the exact distance of one stationary object to the next is given, such as Churches, Mills, Inns, Public Houses, &c.

4. The List of Inns, though not contained in any edition of Paterson's Roads before that of 1799, have nevertheless been published, long before Mr. Cary's Book of the Roads. See Armstrong's Survey of the Road from London to Dover, his Survey of the North Roads, &c. where they are classed at the bottom of each route, exactly on the same plan as Mr. Cary has classed his. The copy right of Armstrong's Survey is the property of Mr. Faden of Charing Cross.

LASTLY, Mr. Cary, in the second edition of his Itinerary, has rejected the construction of his first edition, which gave the measurement from one standard only, viz. the GENERAL POST-OFFICE, and has adopted that of Paterson, by giving the distances from the customary standards, in order that they may agree as nearly as possible with the mile-stones. In this change Mr. Cary has made some egregious mistakes. For instance, he has measured the greater part of the north roads from SHOREDITCH CHURCH, probably, because the Mail Coach runs that way to Edinburgh and Aberdeen; but had he ever travelled these roads, he would have known that the mile-stones from Shoreditch Church through Ware and Huntingdon, extend no farther than Alconbury Hill, and that all the north roads are measured from Hicks's Hall. Thus to the Rein Deer Inn at Lincoln, Mr. Cary gives the distance 128 miles 6 furlongs, this Inn stands at the bottom of the Hill, and the 123d mile-stone (which is correct by the Post-Office survey) stands at the top near the Minster.

The Editor of Paterson's Roads has been induced to draw up this Appendix, merely in justification of his own conduct, and that of the Proprietor of Paterson's Roads, and not through any enmity to Mr. Cary; otherwise he would have considerably extended his remarks on Mr. Cary's second edition; but as all men are subject to error, it would be unjust to endeavour to deprive Mr. Cary of an advantage which the Editor of Paterson hopes to receive himself, viz. the Indulgence of the Public.
